Granada

If you want to take part in this project, the first thing what you must do is to fill the form linked in the last page no later than 27 March 2024.

The information provided by you in the Application form will help us to better prepare our training for you to learn the best of what we can.

DESCRIPTION OF THE YOUTH EXCHANGE

Digitalization is changing everything from the environment to socio-economic developments all over the world, with the fastest transformation ever witnessed in human history. It is also very important to keep up with this change and to catch up with the new world order. Young people, who are the architects of the future, will either adapt to this digital technology and learn the skills of the new age to have a sustainable future or succumb to threats such as the climate crisis and nature recording, which uncontrolled digitalization is facing the world. At this point, young people are presented with two options; a healthy digital future, or a future where cyber threats, environmental problems, and digital waste occur. At this point, it is very important to raise awareness of young people in the field of digital literacy. Otherwise, a digital society without digital literacy knowledge will cause great harm to both the environment and the individual and will drag the world to the end. According to the European Commission's Digital Skills paper, around 42% of Europeans lack basic digital skills, including 37% of the workforce. Considering all these, the general and specific objectives of our project are as follows; 1. Introducing the concept of "e-waste", which has emerged due to our consumption habits and increasing our commitment to technology, to young people and creating awareness in this field, will make young people conscious of digital pollution, 2. Digital pollution has become one of the biggest problems in our world in recent years. Digital pollution is especially the pollution created by the operation of the internet network. Data traffic circulating between continents is one of the best examples of this. Especially young people, who are the biggest peers of digital technology, make a great contribution to this pollution due to their lack of knowledge in this field.

Objectives:

Digi-(YOU) The project was designed during the design phase, especially considering the goals of the Erasmus+ program and Youth Exchange. At this point, our project is related to these goals as follows;

- 1. With "QUALITY LEARNING FOR ALL", which is one of the EU's 2021-2027 Youth Strategy targets, it is aimed that many young people will reach quality learning and gain the ability to use what they have learned for life, thanks to the training that our project will provide.
- 2. The main objective of the Erasmus+ Program and Youth Exchanges is to open doors for young people to acquire new skills, contribute to their personal development, and be supported in new employment areas. Our project also aims to provide participants with these opportunities in the digital and environmental fields and to enable them to acquire new skills so that they can improve themselves.
- 3. In our project, where sustainable studies will be discussed, the participants will be encouraged to have a say in the developing world by carrying out studies on sustainable growth and to take a more active role in decision-making processes on issues that concern them.
- 4. Among the target groups of Digi-(YOU)th project, there are young people with few opportunities. In this way, participants who do not have access to the opportunity will be supported. In addition, the participants will be informed about new opportunities thanks to the workshops on topics such as EU studies and European opportunities.
- 5. Our project will support intercultural dialogue with 36 participants from 6 different countries. Participants will be allowed to own cultures and get to know new cultures. In this way, the participants will have the experience of working in a multicultural environment.
- 6. Non-formal education techniques will be used in all activities carried out during the project. Through non-formal training techniques, participants will be able to express themselves more actively during the sessions, and they will also give them the chance to develop their skills such as speaking in public, as well as learning non-formal training techniques.
- 7. Beyond these, our project will create an international cooperation network between institutions and create new projects and workspaces. 8. We will actively involve our project partners and participants in all the activities we will do during our project, and we will assign them as well. This way, we will ensure that our partner organizations create a participatory network, not just a partner.
